NOTE: The round building on the images above can be found on a farm/ranch in Garfield County near Enid, Oklahoma. It is one of only two known round barns in Oklahoma. This one holds hay and/or grain on the upper level and farming equipment on the lower level. The other round barn in Oklahoma, a much older one, is currently being used as an historical site. It is assumed that there were other round barns in Oklahoma in years gone by. We are delighted to feature the images because of the historical significance attributed to the barns in the Sooner State.
